

from north to south

Hello! My name is Scott, I'm from Toronto, Canada. And I'm about to get married. I met this girl two years ago and, by far, she's simply wonderful! Her name is Ramona. She's intelligent, funny, beautiful with a dash of mystery in her eyes. I'm an accountant and I'm 29, but ever since I remember, I've always wanted to travel from my city to the farthest south, to a place like Patagonia or Tierra de Fuego in Argentina.

When I was in college I met a girl who loved biking. She went everywhere on bike. I started biking with her and some other friends, traveling around Canada and some cities of USA. One day, we were talking about our dreams when we were kids, suddenly I remembered I dreamt about traveling to South America. This is how I decided to combine my passion (biking) and my dream (visiting Argentina). But first I had to finish my major, and I started working to save some money.

Then I met Ramona. I continued with my life, working and going out with her; and bit by bit all about my trip passed to second place. But now that the wedding is around the corner, my dream made a come-back. I told Ramona about this. And guess what? She said to me "I love you Scotty. But if you marry me, you will never be able to make your dream trip; well, at least not in 5 years. So go there and do it, our wedding can wait!" I was so excited! She gave me a hall pass!

Ramona has helped me with the trip preparations. It will take me 1 year. I asked for a year leave from work and my boss said "I admire you and I wish you luck. So here I am, eager to start that trip. I'm leaving in two days. I'll be posting photos and about the experiences I come across, so follow me on my new adventures.
